

The Commandments of Tactical Camouflage

- I. Thou shalt not park thy helicopter in the open, for it bringeth the rain of steel.
- II. Thou shalt not expose thy shiny mess gear, for it bringeth unwanted guests to chow.
- III. Thou shalt not wear white T-shirts, or thine enemies will dye them red.
- IV. Thou shalt provide overhead concealment, for thine enemies' eyes are upon thee.
- V. Thou shalt cover thy tall antenna, for fly swatters groweth not in yon wood.
- VI. Thou shalt use a red lens on thy flashlight, or it shall appear as a star in the East.
- VII. Thou shalt cover the glass on thy vehicle, for the glare telleth thine enemy thy location.
- VIII. Thou shalt blend with thy surroundings, for trees groweth not in yon desert.
- IX. Thou shalt cover the tracks of thy vehicle, for they draweth pretty pictures.
- X. Thou shalt cover thy face, hands, and helmet, for thine enemies maketh war not on bushes.
- XI. Thou shalt not drape thy net on thy tent, for it looketh like tent draped in net.
- XII. Thou shalt hide the wires of thy comms, for they pointeth to thee.
- XIII. Thou shalt practice the art of dispersion, or one round will finish you all.
- XIV. Thou shalt pick up thy trash and litter, for they exposeth thy presence.
- XV. Thou shalt conceal the noise of thy generator, for thine enemies are listening.